

1. Implement for cleaning floors, walls and the like, comprising a sponge fastened to a handle and a device for squeezing the sponge in order to remove moisture which has been absorbed, said squeezing device consisting of parallel rollers supported at a fixed distance apart and adapted, when lowered over the sponge, to press the same between them, characterized in that the rollers are mounted on a frame which is displaceable on and along the handle.

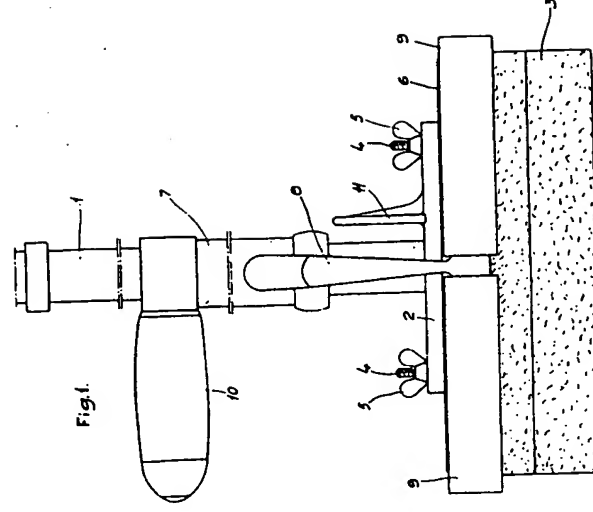

Fig. 1